

What is Kendall Square?

Industry Sectors

30+ industries call Kendall Square home – the largest being life sciences, technology, and professional services.

Global Leader in Life Sciences

10 of the top 15 life sciences companies are in Kendall Square

1912

Kendall Square
T station opens

1916

MIT relocates from Boston to Cambridge

1961

President
Kennedy, a native of Massachusetts,
assumes office
and looks close to home for
locating NASA's
headquarters

1964

NASA establishes an Electronics
Research Center in Cambridge to develop technologies for spacecraft
guidance, control,
communications,
and information
display

1966

NASA's
research center
grows to employ
850 people

1970

The Department of Transportation takes over the former NASA facilities, creating a research center now known as the Volpe Center.

1978

MIT geneticist and molecular biologist, Philip Sharp and Harvard University biochemist Wally Gilbert found Biogen

1981

Boston Properties begins building the Cambridge Center complex, which now houses Google, VMware, Akamai Technologies, Biogen, and Microsoft

1999

CIC is founded. One Broadway has previously housed more startups than any other building on Earth

2003

The completion of the Human Genome Project

2008

Both Google and Microsoft open offices in Kendall Square – Google now has almost 2,000 staff at their Kendall office alone

2013

Amazon and Facebook both make the move to Kendall Square

2014

Twitter acquires two Boston-based startups and begins to grow its Kendall Square footprint

March 2020

May 2020

Oct. 2020

May 2021

Sept. 2021

Moderna's COVID-19 vaccine becomes the first to be tested on healthy volunteers

Operation Warp Speed is announced, involving KSA member-organizations Moderna, Johnson & Johnson, Pfizer, and Sanofi Genzyme

LabCentral announces it has partnered with BioLabs and E25Bio to launch the Cambridge Consortium for Rapid COVID-19 Tests

CIC Health announces it has surpassed 1 million COVID-19 vaccines administered at the mass and community pop-up vaccination sites

Broad Institute partners with CDC to enable pathogen genomic surveillance across the U.S.

May 2022

Sanofi unites its business units and acquired brands under single identity and names Cambridge Crossing as homebase for closer collaboration between R&D, manufacturing, commercial and medical affairs

June 2022

Takeda expands its footprint in Kendall Square to create purpose-built R&D facility with labs, upgraded tech and modern design elements to advance company innovation

Summer 2022 to Present Day

New publicly accessible spaces welcome Kendall and greater Cambridge back!

MIT MUSEUM

